Finalidad: Para información y para que se adopten las medidas pertinentes, según proceda

Estimado señor/Estimada señora:

Me es grato comunicarle que del 14 al 25 de abril de 2014 se va a celebrar en China un Seminario internacional de formación sobre “Métodos de predicción climática a corto plazo”, patrocinado por la Administración Meteorológica de China (CMA), en el Centro regional de formación (CRF) de la Organización Meteorológica Mundial (OMM) en Beijing.

El objetivo de este Curso, destinado a meteorólogos de países en desarrollo cuya labor operativa o de investigación se centra en el análisis y la predicción del clima, es brindar a los participantes la oportunidad de adquirir una comprensión cabal de los principales conocimientos y métodos de predicción climática a corto plazo.

El Seminario consta de dos partes. En la primera parte los participantes conocerán la labor operativa y de investigación del Centro sobre el Clima de la OMM en Beijing y adquirirán conocimientos fundamentales sobre los métodos de predicción climática a corto plazo. En la segunda parte se invitará a todos los participantes a asistir a la décima reunión del “Foro regional sobre la vigilancia, evaluación y predicción del clima de Asia”, organizado por el Centro sobre el Clima de la OMM en Beijing. El Seminario solo se impartirá en inglés. Para más información, se adjunta un documento sobre la inscripción (anexo I).

Le ruego tome nota de que se exonerará del pago de la matrícula a todos los participantes admitidos que reciban la notificación de admisión (Admission Notice) aprobada por el CRF de la OMM en Beijing. El Gobierno de China concederá ayuda a los participantes de países en desarrollo para los gastos locales, tales como el alojamiento o las comidas, así como dinero para gastos personales (50 yuan por día). Cuando se haga la reserva de los billetes de avión, deberá tenerse en cuenta que está previsto que los participantes lleguen a Beijing el 13 de abril de 2014 y se vayan el 26 de abril. Los gastos de los participantes de países desarrollados correrán por su cuenta.

A los Representantes Permanentes (o Directores de los Servicios Meteorológicos o Hidrometeorológicos) de los Miembros de la OMM (PR-6743)
